A close-up, black and white photograph of a metal frame joint. Four thick, polished metal bars intersect at a central point, forming an 'X' shape. The bars have a brushed metal finish and are connected by a cylindrical metal fitting. The lighting creates strong highlights and shadows, emphasizing the geometric precision and metallic texture of the components.

A person with dark curly hair is seen from the side, focused on drawing architectural floor plans on a large sheet of paper. The desk is cluttered with various design tools: a stack of wooden boards, a copper-colored pen holder with blue-handled scissors, a black book with 'MILAN' written on it, a box of colored pencils, and several loose pencils. The person is using a pen to draw lines on the paper.

Design as Strategic Tool.

Design is not just the form, but fundamentally it is the method that guarantees a unique and innovative final product. An international design that contributes to creating objects that live beyond the latest trends.

Not only Products
but a Coordinated Life-style.

Coro e Fim products
are designed and
combined to create a complete and coordinated outdoor landscape.

They are flexible
objects that lend themselves to interpreting the space according to different styles.

Not Single Objects, but a Family Feeling

Coro e Fim products are the outcome of years of evolutions, additions and gradual developments.

All with the aim of creating a series of homogeneous products that cover the different areas of contemporary living.

A modern outdoor dining table and chairs on a wooden deck overlooking a golf course and the ocean at sunset. The table is rectangular with a light-colored top and metal legs. It is surrounded by metal-framed chairs with woven backs. On the table are several white dishes and cups. Two white lanterns are on the deck near the table. The background shows a green golf course, a body of water, and a sunset sky with clouds.
